

WOMAN IS ATTACKED AND HOUSE ROBBED

Two Brothers, Trained by Bloodhounds, Arrested. Under Heavy Guard.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 27.—Sheriff Donaldson is holding two brothers named Crago, suspected of being the men who held up Mrs. Margaret Schwab, seventy, at her home just west of Newcomerstown, late last night.

The men were apprehended by a posse from Newcomerstown, who followed two bloodhounds which led directly from the Schwab home to a shanty at the entrance of the coal mine in which the men worked. The men were turned over to Coshocton county sheriff, who immediately rushed them to Coshocton county jail. Every precaution is being taken to prevent lynching.

Mrs. Schwab, who lives alone on her farm, was awakened last night to find two men, both masked, leaning over her bed. She screamed, but one of the men slapped her hand over her face and demanded silence. Then he asked in a threatening tone where her money was.

Mrs. Schwab was badly frightened, but insisted she had no money. Her reply was met with a crushing blow upon the forehead by the butt end of a revolver. One of the men held.

According to her story this morning she next found herself bound and gagged, in an adjoining room. Tugging desperately at her fetters for at least ten minutes, she finally freed herself. Creeping to a window, she raised it and jumped out.

The aged woman says she then walked to the window of her bed room and peered in, seeing the burglars going through her belongings. Summoning all her courage she set out for the home of John Neighor, a mile away. She reached the place exhausted, and told them of her experience.

Arming himself, Neighor, accompanied by a son, ran to the Schwab home. Reaching there they found that the burglars had left, taking about $300 with them hidden in a cupboard.

Bloodhounds were then secured from nearby neighbors and the Crago brothers soon run down. They protest their innocence.

Mrs. Schwab is in a serious condition as the result of shock. Newcomerstown physicians say her nerves are completely shattered and that she may not live.

DE LA BARRA TELLS STORY OF UPRISING

Mexican Ambassador Gives Out His Official Figures.

As evidence that he has been secure in his attitude, which was that reports from the Mexican revolution have been greatly exaggerated, Senor de la Barra, Mexican ambassador, today made public the text of an official statement he has received from his government concerning the number killed in the riot at Puebla.

The statement was received from the office of foreign affairs of Mexico this morning and gives the number of slain at Puebla as twenty-three, with twelve wounded.

The Puebla riot, referred to in some dispatches as a "battle," occurred on November 17. The number of dead was variously reported at from 100 to 400.

Did Not Last Long.

According to the information in Senor de la Barra's hands, the Puebla trouble was of short duration. The statement sets forth that twenty-five revolutionists gathered in a house to formulate a conspiracy against the Diaz government.

Their presence was discovered. The Puebla police, assisted by a company of soldiers, attempted to arrest them. The revolutionists were armed and opened fire.

The twenty-five persons killed represented losses on both sides, as a number of the revolutionists, soldiers, and members of the police fell during the exchange of shots.

Not only are the details of the Puebla trouble given, but the statement sets forth that tranquility now prevails throughout the entire republic.

DIAZ PUTS BLAME WHOLLY ON MADERO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 27.—President Diaz made a statement today in which he terms the revolution a mere revolt and deprecates the importance attached to the disturbance.

"The government," he said, "is supported by public opinion and a well-disciplined army."

The statement in full follows: "The recent riots in certain portions of Mexico are the political work of Francisco Madero. According to the proclamation he published on throwing himself into an attempted revolution, his object was to attain the presidency by force, since he was unable to do so by the votes of his fellow-citizens."

"This political movement will not extend, since hitherto it has limited itself to riots in Puebla, Gomez Palacio, Parral, and Ciudad Guerrero. In all these places they have been suppressed by the police and the general forces. The rest of the republic has remained completely tranquil. The Mexican people love peace and understand its benefits, and will not accept an 'revolution.'

"Further, the business men understand their interests would be in danger in the hands of persons who profess socialism and carry on an anarchistic propaganda. No danger exists here either for the natives or for the foreigners, but it is very interesting that the press should publish sensational and exaggerated news, which tends to cause alarm in the money markets and do damage to business."

"It cannot be said that there have been serious disturbances, for even in the places where there have been riots, to which I have referred, order was re-established a few hours later, and every one is attending to his affairs, with no more excitement than that created by sensational news. The government is supported by public opinion and a well-disciplined army."

REBELS DISTURB MORMON COLONY

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 27.—The only activity reported in northern Mexico as a result of the recent insurrection is from bands in the Sierra Madre region, near the Mormon colonies. Some uneasiness is expressed at Nueva Casas Grande, Pearson, and several other localities in the mountains to which the rebels were driven.

That this situation is well founded is indicated by the fact that two attacks have been made during the week on towns thereabouts, once on Wednesday, when Managua was taken with a loss of two rebels dead and a number injured on each side, and yesterday at Betonia ranch, near Sacramento, where the rebels looted the place after firing and frightening the few inhabitants away.

Some railroad tracks were torn up near Santa Barbara, too, but it was discovered in time to avoid a wreck.
